

Pipelife is one of the world's leading suppliers of plastic pipe systems, currently present in 27 countries. We manufacture and market a wide range of quality pipe systems, providing tailor-made solutions for municipal infrastructure as well as for the industrial and house-building sectors.

For our headquarters in Wiener Neudorf, Austria, we are looking for a

Financial Controller for International Projects (m/f)

In this key function you have a leading role in the design and roll-out of an activity based cost management system. Starting in the controlling department at Pipelife Austria in Wiener Neudorf, you will gain insights into the operations and systems at Pipelife and work on the pilot project for activity based costing. After completion of the pilot project, you will have a leading role in the roll-out to the other Group countries. You will be on site, supporting the Management Teams of our subsidiaries with the implementation of this new system. Reporting to the Corporate Project Manager, you will have the chance to gain international experience and an in-depth insight into the operations of an industrial group.

You hold a master's degree in business administration with a focus on finance/controlling and possibly IT. Ideally you have an analytical mindset and have already gained some experience in controlling. Fluency in English and willingness to travel frequently are further aspects to meet our profile. If you are a team oriented person and open to cultural diversities we are looking forward to your application.

We offer you an interesting position with further international career opportunities within a successful, world-wide operating group. Please send your application to
